Liberal Attendance of Workingmen-Majority of the Delegates in Favor of

At 12 o'clock M, on the 2nd day of September a convention will be held in Richmond to nominate a candidate to succeed Hon. George D. Wise as a member of Congress from the Third district of Virginia. The convention will be composed of seventy-nine dele-gates, apportioned as follows: Richmend, 38; Manchester, 4; Henrico, 9; Goochland, 4; Chesterfield, 9; New Kent, 2; Hanover, 9; King William,

Manchester, New Kent, Hanover, Henrico, and Goochland had already elected their delegates, and meetings were held in the several wards of this city for the same purpose last night. The wards elected the following number of delegates: Clay, 8; Monroe, 8; Madison, 7; Jefferson, 7; Mar-

Without any unnecessary delay candidates to the number of about twenty were placed in nomination, and the voting began.

THE NEW CITY HALL GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS COMMITTEE

ADOPT THE MYERS PLAN.

RICHMOND, VA., SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 21, 1886.

Appointment of Supervising Architects. &c .- Injunction to Be Asked Restraining the Committee from Building.

The Committee on Grounds and Buildings held a called meeting at 7 o'clock yesterday evening in the City Engineer's office. Present: Messrs. Kendler (chairman), Pizzini, Ammons, Snead, Crenshaw, and Colonel Cutshaw, City Engineer.

Mr. Kendler laid two telegrams before the committee from Waite & Cutter. One read:

"August 16. - Ordinance passed over Mayor's veto gives committee power to select from two plans. Members of Council made statements that indicated they had not seen our contract with the city; and, as our interests are jeopardized, if committee is gov-erned by these statements, we feel we ought to be permitted to meet committee before any action is taken. Will come when notified." The second one was :

" August 20 .- We have written you at length, making proposition for making new drawings to cost not over No action was taken on the telegrams. ADOPTION OF THE MYERS PLAN.

Mr. Pizzini offered the following reso-Resolved, That the plans for the new City Hall as prepared by Colonel E. E. Myers, of Detroit, Mich., be adopted as the plans by which the new City candidate. I say in conclusion that Hall shall be built, and the City Engineer is directed to lay out the foundation of the building in accordance with these plans and commence the work on September 1, 1886, at 7 A. M., and the chairman is authorized to draw his warrant on the Treasurer for $5,000 in part payment of these plans, the remainder to be paid as the work progresses and the detail plans are furnished : Provided that the rights of the city shall be fully protected by a contract drawn by the City Attorney and Action for an Injunction.

It is authoritatively stated that several lawyers of this city are, at the instance of some of Richmond's property-owners and tax-payers, preparing a paper which will be submitted to the Judge of the Chancery Court in a few days (probably to-day) asking that the Committee on Grounds and Buildings, the City Engineer and those acting with them be restrained and enjoined from proceeding to build the new City Hall in accordance with the power given them by the City Council.

Those fathering the movement think the injunction will be granted and that no reasons that can be given will cause its dissolution. There will be three points of law alleged in the paper First, that the amended ordinance giving the committee authority is not legal, as it carries with it a large appropriation of money, and did not pass both branches of the Council by a two-thirds vote; second, that the Council had no right to delegate to a committee the building of the Hall and the expenditure of so much money; third that the Council had no power to give unlimited power to the committee. Of course those on this side of the question coincide in the views of the Mayor, and consider that, by reason of the authority given, the committee can spend more money than the appropriation of $280,000, whereas those a contrary opinion declare that after the $280,000 is consumed, if more is needed that the committee will have to sonal Matters. [From Our Regular Correspondent.! WASHINGTON, August 20 .- A gentleman said to me yesterday: "The laboring element will probably have fifteen members in the next Congress. Where they are to come from he did not seem anxious to specify. This man is a sound Democrat, and takes no stock in independency. I discussed the question of the labor element in politics with a clear-headed man to-day. He held there views :

The politics of such a country a of classes as such in government. It is a government of the people by the people, and there is no occasion for law, commerce, manufactures, mechanics, the farm, and what not, to start a party to get its rights. Generally the movements are begun by men who have axes themselves to grind. The worst demagogue is your advocate of a special interest.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES. Looking to the South, this gentleman, who is an intelligent obthe Association and a few invited guests server, said he had no idea that the present crop of independent candidates would mature. "A man here and there may slip into Congress or a greater number may turn up in the State covers were laid for sixty. In the Legislatures; but I do not apprehend that the independent candidate in any State is much of a factor in its politics-at least, the time has not yet come when party relations will be much disturbed by the ambition of the discontented men who count on forcing the people to do at the polls what they have refused again and again to do in the party conventions."

> THE FIGHT IN NORTH CAROLINA. Some of the few North Carolinians now in the city who find time from official work to talk politics are displeased with the management of recent the dissatisfaction which prevails in some quarters. There is some fear that one of the eastern districts will be a hotly-contested ground. and that a certain western district will try the mettle of the Democratic candidate. In neither district is there absolute danger of a revolt from the nominee. The trouble in the latter case is the ambition of an aspirant. In the former the grumbling comes from the very best Democrats in this section-men who never have failed in fealty and presumably will not now.

Some mistakes were made this year in the matter of nominations, but as the trouble is personal and does not affect the character of any of the nominees or refer at all to principles, the prediction is made by gentlemen who know the people of North Carolina that everything will be settled in due course of Wilme time. THE ROYD CALLS. Secretary Fairchild's statement as to Their Effect (By telegraph to the Dispaten.)

WASHINGTON, August 20 .- Acting Secretary Fairchild made the following statement to-day in regard to the fifteen-million-dollar bond-call: The receipts are unusually large just at this time. Silver is being absorbed by the people pretty well, and the conditions generally are quite favorable for such a call at this time. The call does not affect the money market enough to make a tight market a motive, as the bonds are mostly held by the national banks, but what little effect it has is helpful. and the public may as well get the bene-

To a suggestion that it looked like following out the Morrison resolution, the Secretary said, with a smile, that it was mere than that. He denied that the calls were made for political effect. The reason Secretary Manning had not made such calls was that the conditions were not favorable. The thing had been overdone when he assumed control of the Department, and Mr. McCulloch was in doubt about the result when he went out. Secretary Manning had to wait until the condition of the Treasury would warrant a further reduction of the debt. To have gone on calling bonds with the Treasury in the condition it was might have reduced money to a single silver standard. It was not Sunday morning at 10 o'clock for City safe to call more bonds at that time if the two metals, gold and silver, were to be kept on an equality. In substance be said : " The situation is just this: The Government has gold, silver, and paper money, fractional currency, and silver certificates. In paying out it must allow the payee the option to select which he prefers. Whichever he wants-gold, silver, or paper-he can have. One is as good as the other, and he will take that which is if the scarcity of one of these moneys precludes this selection -if the Government hands out silver, for instance, and says, . Here, you must most convenient for use. have,' the condition is changed. For instance, say the Government pays a man in this way $100,000 in silver, and that he has no use for more than $50,-000. He cannot use more than that in his business or distribute it among the people; he has the other $50,000 on his bands. He must do one of two things with it - bay property or put it on the market. If he buys property the man he buys does not want silver any more than he does. He must, therefore, pay more for his property in that money. But it is most likely that he will put money on the market. The public has absorbed all it can, so there is no demand for silver. It must go at a discount-say of 5 per cent. ; but it doesn't stop there. This discount runs through all the silver in circulation and all there cannot run the risk of this. The Treasury must be the reservoir in which is held all money that cannot be absorbed by business and by the people. The natural condition of equality between moneys must be preserved. The coinage of two million silver dellars per month was an unnatural condition male by statutory action. To balance this the Treasury surplus had to be increased so as to provide for that which could not so as to provide for that which could not be used. Even if there is no more sil ver than the people want it takes time to distribute it, and it must be held in the Treasury and let out to meet de-mands. It must be let out just as fast as the people will absorbit; no faster. The Department had to wait before making large bond-calls until the condition of the Treasury was such as to allow a choice of money. Now the receipts of the Government are large; the people are taking kilver pretty well; the calls this, with free institutions and frequent elections, do not call for the interference will call as much as we can. Thus far the calls have amounted since the 1st of July to $37,000,000. The probability is that the calls during the year will very far exceed the amount necessary for the sinking fund. They will be made as often as the condition of the Treasury will warrant. There is no fixed limit. No one can tell three months ahead what can be done in the way of bond-calls. The trouble with the Morrison resolution was, as was said in Congress, that it made it obligatory to call just so much. This cannot be done. It is im-

Meredith arose and said Mr. Chairman, before the vote is taken. in view of the resolution that you have adopted to send your delegates uninstructed, it is proper for me to say that if I am sent to the Convention I will under no circumstances vote for the Hon. George D. Wise. I think he has treated the other candidates unfairly in withdrawing from the canvass at this late day, and, having said that he will not be a candidate, I take him at his word. If sent to the Convention therefore, it will be to vote against Mr. Mr. H. M. Smith, Jr., said : If 1 go to the Convention I go pledged for no man and against no man. I shall go as a delegate from this ward to vote for the candidate whom I believe and whom my constituents believe to be the strongest man in the party. I do not hesitate to say, gentlemen, however, that if I should believe George D. Wise to be the strongest man in the field I shall vote for him with the greatest pleasure, and though I believe, gentlemen, that George D. Wise was sincere in saying that he did not desire the omination, knowing the man as I do, I believe he would not hesitate to sacrifice his health, his fortune, and all save his honor for the beloved people of his district. With these sentiments, gentle-
